

Discovering academic treasures

GLT Saraswati

BAL MANDIR

Students of GLT Saraswati Bal Mandir, Nehru Nagar, visited the Central Reference Library, University of Delhi, for an educational trip.

The visit gave students practical exposure to an academic library, helping them connect classroom learning with real-life practice. They observed the calm, disciplined atmosphere essential for study, along with well-maintained infrastructure and seating facilities.

The librarian explained the library's structure and functioning, covering Reference, Circulation, Periodicals, and the Digital Library. Students learned about book arrangement using the Dewey Decimal Classification (DDC), cataloguing, OPAC, circulation, and reference services. Special focus was given to the Research and Digital Library sections, introducing e-books, e-journals, databases, and online resources.

The visit enhanced students' understanding of library management, information organisation, and digital services, inspiring interest in professional growth in Library and Information Science. Principal Shalini Midha and librarian Poonam Singh thanked Dr Rajesh Singh, University chief librarian, for bridging the school and higher education libraries.

GLT Saraswati Bal Mandir Senior Secondary School, Nehru Nagar, organises educational trip to World Book Fair 2026

NEW DELHI: GLT Saraswati Bal Mandir Senior Secondary School, Nehru Nagar, organised an educational excursion for its students to the World Book Fair 2026, held at Bharat Mandapam, New Delhi. The fair, organised by the National Book Trust (NBT), proved to be a rich and inspiring experience for students.

The visit was organised by the school's library department under the guidance of principal Shalini Midhha. The students from Classes 8-11 took part in that learning journey with all zeal.

The students from the Vidya Bharti schools of Kalkaji, Lajpat Nagar, and Geeta Bal Bharti also took part in the visit, making it a large and vibrant academic gathering.

tude to the school management for its valuable support and guidance.

They also thanked the NBT for graciously accommodating 250 students in the Children's Pavilion, which enabled students to participate comfortably in various activities.

During the visit, students actively participated in a wide range of creative and literary activities such as Madhubani art, Worli art, play with clay, puppet making, and quizzes conducted by Rashtriya E-Pustakalaya. Through their creativity, confidence, and effective expression, many students won medals and certificates, bringing pride to the institution. Under the leadership of library department heads Renu and Poonam, students as well as teachers enriched their literary knowledge and gained meaningful exposure to the world of books, art, & creativity.

Students of GLT Saraswati Bal Mandir Sr. Sec. School, Nehru Nagar, earn the status of published authors

NEW DELHI: It was a moment of immense pride and celebration for GLT Saraswati Bal Mandir Senior Secondary School, Nehru Nagar, as 324 talented students of the institution achieved the remarkable distinction of becoming published young authors on the BriBooks International Creative Writing Portal.

In a special group photo session held at the school auditorium, the young authors proudly showcased their published books, celebrating their creativity, imagination, and passion for writing. Those books explore a diverse range of themes such as Family and Friends, Global Warming, Sports, Indian Culture, and the Environment. School manager Lakshmi Singh applauded the students for their exceptional achievement. She appreciated the diversity of themes selected by the young writers, stating that their books reflect the sensitivity, awareness, and creative potential of the students.

Their achievement also received special appreciation from principal Shalini, who congratulated all the young authors and praised their dedication and originality. She highlighted that the accomplishment demonstrates that age is no barrier to creativity, imagination, and the power of expression.

A particularly significant highlight of this achievement was the recognition the young authors received from BriBooks founder Ami Dror. He personally acknowledged the remarkable accomplishment of the school and its young authors by featuring the achievement on his Instagram page and LinkedIn profile. Such recognition from the founder of an international publishing platform makes the accomplishment even more prestigious and it serves as a testament to the exceptional creative efforts of the students and the school.

The shoutout on Ami Dror's social media platforms has further brought the achievement into the spotlight, placing GLT Saraswati Bal Mandir prominently among schools that nurture young authors and encourage children to express their ideas through the power of writing.

The achievement not only honoured the 324 young authors but also highlighted the school's continued commitment to nurturing creativity, encouraging independent thinking, and providing students with meaningful opportunities to showcase their talent on global platforms.
